National Newspaper Week Oct. 2-8

Another 'Week' That Is

The editorial appetites of many people are grossly deficient. They aren't necessarily malnourished on knowledge. They know enough to exist physically. But they are little more than bewildered robots programmed on their own ignorance.

They lack more than a news diet. They lack the cultural vitamins and sundry other knowledge nutrients. But we are all deficient to degrees in feeding our mental needs. With the mass media in an unbelievable communications revolution of expansion and efficiency there is no excuse for a news deficiency.

ONLY too often we hear the excuse that had the public been informed beforehand of possible undesirable events the necessary precautions might have been taken. This unawareness of events which, in one respect or another, affect our daily lives should cease to be a problem.

In order to make the transformation to an informed, news-unified people, we must have a network of editors and reporters and an interested public.

THE GOAL of the newsmen is to report and interpret events with the public interest and advancement in mind. Newsmen, to the best of their ability, are achieving this objective. However, on the other end of the scale, the public falls far short in upholding its end of the bargain. Too many people—a case could be made for a few—simply do not feel obligated to the task of keeping informed.

America enjoys a freedom of the press unequalled anywhere in the world. Only too often the news is treaded upon by unconcerned "big feet" who could care less about being informed. Some can be shown the error or their oversights; others can't.

A MORE interested, concerned public unafraid to meet and face up to the problems of this modern world would signify, more than anything else, a true observance of National News Week.

No person will be forced to observe this week. We are all deeply indebted to the knowledge news affords us.

THERE is no need for flag waving or cannon firing in observance of this week. Just READ the news. With the challenge of today who can afford not to keep well informed?

Carolina University Makes The "Be-In" A "Has Been"

(ACP)—The Be-In has been,

It "has been" at many universities across the country but perhaps was never quite as "in" as at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

THERE, reports the DAILY TAR HEEL, the One-Eyed Jacks started it off, the Jug Band picked it up, and several thousand people carried it through.

It looked like a giant masquerade party, with medieval costumes, Indian mini-skirts, Roman togas, clowns, fish-net bras, dogs wearing paisley ties, aluminum foil dresses, and everything else the college mind could conjure.

There were paint-ins, chalk-ins, sing-ins, dress-ins, climb-ins, and even a laugh-in. The latter occurred when some 20 students lay on each other in various positions and just laughed.

THERE WAS Adolph Hitler on tape and Hitler personified from a second-floor window, shouting "Sieg Heil" while extending his arm. A dead pine tree was erected and decorated with balloons and dogwood blossoms. In the quad a lawn chess game was played using humans as pawns and other figures in the chess hierarchy. The odor of incense wafted through the air and a student named Fritz ate dog biscuits.

A group of students sitting in a boat was asked to explain its behavior. Observed one:

Student Reading Runs From 'Candy' To 'Scarlett'

By Lance King

Margaret Mitchell's immortal Civil War classic, GONE WITH THE WIND, continues to be widely read by students, according to a poll taken recently by this reporter. Miss Mitchell's passionate Civil War epic was mentioned most frequently by those interviewed. The novel is not really an accurate description of the reading tastes. Their literary taste buds are as varied as the individuals.

SURPRISINGLY perhaps, the vast majority of the students interviewed stated their reading tastes were more accented on the classics and the older novels and other works of the past. The number who listed current best-sellers as recently read books was relatively few. The accent on Ernest Hemingway is strong. Hemingway's great novelette, THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA, and two of his novels, FAREWELL TO ARMS, and THE SUN ALSO RISES, were mentioned often. A few students also mentioned his FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS.

Once-banned classics in this country are rated as "musts." In the general atmosphere of relaxed censorship students seem to be reading these books which once were forbidden, and then are drawing their own conclusions and evaluations. Terry Southern's CANDY is perhaps the most influential of these works. Most of the students discovered that, contrary to what they had been told, the book was not "dirty" or perverted. The general student reaction was summed up by one young man who said, "CANDY is the most hilariously funny novel I have ever read. Most people don't realize that the book is a wild satirical novel that is meant to be interpreted as such."

IN ADDITION to CANDY, other erotic works being read and discussed are LADY CHATTERLY'S LOVER by D. H. Lawrence, MY LIFE AND LOVES by Frank Harris, and Henry Fielding's TOM JONES.

Satire continues to be read and widely so. The classic example, GULLIVER'S TRAVELS by Johnathan Swift, was mentioned most often. Also being widely enjoyed is Bel Kaufman's recent smash best-seller, UP THE DOWN STAIRCASE.

"That was a really good book. I haven't laughed so much in a long time," one coed stated. Another current satirical work now being read is HOW TO TALK DIRTY AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE by Lenny Bruce.

THE LATE Ian Fleming's suave secret agent, Commander James Bond, still enjoys a tremendous degree of popularity although espionage thrillers such as Len Deighton's FUNERAL IN BERLIN and John LeCarre's brutally realistic THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD, are cutting into 007's lead. As one student so aptly put it, "James Bond is fine for strictly pleasure, but let's face it: he wouldn't live two days in Berlin of today. That is why I am going more to the works of Mr. LeCarre." His characters, the young man went on, "are nondescript and believable. He portrays the world of espionage and intrigue as it really is—a world of brutality and violence."

NOVELS of philosophy are big on campus this year. Marsh McClean's UNDERSTANDING MEDIA, a philosophical study of the effect of electricity on society and man in general, was named by sophomore Charles Cartwright, as one of the better philosophical works. Two of Ayn Rand's works, ANTHEM and the dynamic ATLAS SHRUGGED, were also named. Said one student of the 1,400 pages of ATLAS SHRUGGED, "It is a powerful novel—the story of a man some called the 'Destroyer' but who, in reality, is the savior of the intellect of mankind. It deals with a philosophy of the individuality of man."

Poets being read widely are Edgar Allan Poe, John Donne, John Dryden, William Shakespeare, and Emily Dickinson. Most are readings short lyrical poems for they feel that they, in the words of one freshman, "dread enough epics in class."

IT IS evident that no clear trend in either reading tastes or habits can be formulated. However, there can be no doubt that preference by the coeds is clear and evident. They still are drawn into the irresistible charm of the old South and the immortal heroine, Scarlett O'Hara.

Volette Cuts To Short Tab.

For a variety of technical reasons, The Volette, as you have no doubt already deduced, is somewhat shorter than usual, two inches to be precise.

The new format conforms to the dimensions of most metropolitan tabloid newspapers. Editorial fare will not be decreased noticeably per page. The new length will probably contribute to bigger newspapers. According to the editors, eight-page papers will become more or less standard, depending upon the quantity and quality of the campus news.

Student Trends Point To Pragmatic Thought

Regarding the debate over whether to continue student deferments, the following editorial from the STATE PRESS, Arizona State University, Tempe, looks at the pros and cons of the current and proposed draft systems.

TO UNIVERSITY students, the most important of the far-reaching reforms proposed by the President's special Commission on the Selective Service is the discontinuation of under-graduate deferments. Thus, students would receive the same draft consideration as factory workers, file clerks, and ditch diggers. Not surprisingly this recommendation has not been met with universal glee.

According to Joe College, a student is trying to better himself and make an invaluable contribution to his country as one of its intellectual leaders. The poor wretch who is either too stupid or too poor to make it to college is the logical draft choice, says Joe.

PERHAPS Joe is right, but he might get an argument from Poor Wretch. But avoid for the moment any value judgment concerning who is the more logical draft choice and look at the proposals objectively.

The question of student deferments is not black and white. Both the present system and the proposed reforms have advantages. It is necessary, therefore, to construct something of a balance sheet.

On the credit side of the present system is the protection from the draft, at least temporarily, of hundreds of students who sincerely seek a higher education and have the ability to make the most of it. The military can offer them nothing, and they can offer the military little except a healthy serving of resentment at the imposition.

THERE are two distinct debits. First, the deferment is only temporary. When a student's education is completed, his age makes him more than ever ripe for the plucking. He is eager to begin his career, but he is likely to be drafted.

Second, the present system encourages the hanger-on; the guy who comes to school with no intention of offering the university anything and who takes nothing from it except a diploma; the guy who makes it through the graduation on the skin of his teeth and his roommate's notes; the guy who shudders every time he sees a uniform; the university parasite.

Contrast the proposed reforms. Debit: There would be virtually no student deferments; thus, many potentially fine students would be drafted. Credit: Once a student makes it past his 19th birthday, in all likelihood he will escape the draft and make plans for his future with confidence. Instead of two or three years of anxious uncertainty, only his 19th year will be tense.

SINCE BEING a student will not in itself offer any favorable consideration from the draft board, the draft dodger will find no advantage in expending the minimum effort required to get through school and thus will not burden the university with his presence. The loss will be the gain of all sincerely dedicated students.

Counselors Chosen

Dormitory Councils consist of elected officers, appointed counselors, and the hostess of each residence hall and administrative personnel.

THE Council's responsibilities will include providing a social program for residents, consideration of suggestions or criticisms from any student, and the promotion of optimum study conditions within the dormitories.

DORMITORY Councils meet at regular monthly breakfast meetings in the University Cafeteria. Common problems and residence hall objectives are discussed at these informal meetings.

Nelson And Neal Hold Recital Tues.

Nelson and Neal, internationally known duo-pianists and artists in residence at the University, will be presented on campus in a faculty recital Tuesday.

THE program has been planned to include works by Bach, Schubert, Debussy, Milhaud and Brahms.

Beginning their third year as staff members, Nelson and Neal recently returned from a concert tour of the Far East, which included appearances in Manila, P.I.; Hongkong; Singapore; Suva, Fiji Islands; Adelaide, Australia; and New Delhi, India.

FAVORABLE reviews on Nelson and Neal's performances appeared in the principal newspapers of the cities they visited while on tour. Typical of these was the one that appeared in the August 10 edition of the Manila Times: "Nelson and Neal approach the ideal. . . Enormous appeal!"

The program at the Music Building is open to students and the public free of charge. A public reception will be held immediately after the program.

ROTC Program Seeks Improved Cadet Spirit

A program to add spirit and encourage proficiency has been introduced at the weekly ROTC drill.

Each week the best freshman cadet in the brigade will be selected and assigned as "Colonel's Orderly" for the following drill period.

The three cadets from the three battalions will then be reviewed by the brigade executive officer, who will select the best cadet in the brigade, award him 30 merits and assign him Colonel's Orderly for the following drill.

FROM PLATOON to brigade level, each cadet will be inspected for personal appearance, including shoe shine, haircut, polished brass and uniform correctness and neatness and reviewed on the current military subjects he is studying. Military bearing, enthusiasm and spirit are also considered by each echelon's selecting officer.

The first cadet selected and Colonel's Orderly for tomorrow's drill is Cadet J. M. Smith, 2nd Battalion, F Company.

Vols Blast SEMO 39-0, Travel To Alabama Sat.

The Vols journey with three straight wins under their belts to Alabama to play Jacksonville State Saturday night.

Sparked by a sharp offense and defense, the Vols scalped the Southeast Missouri Indians 39 to 0 here Saturday night.

LEE MAYO kicked off for the Volunteers to start the contest, and Southeast began plugging away toward paydirt, but the determined defensive wall of the Vols held on the three yard line, after which the Volunteers gained possession of the ball.

The ball changed hands three more times, neither team being able to pull together a drive. Then late in the first quarter, kicking specialist Lee Mayo booted one through the uprights from 42 yards out and the Vols took the lead 3 to 0.

AS THE second quarter began, it was all Volunteers. Vol quarterback Allan Cox tossed a 13 yard aerial to wingback Steve Allison for a six pointer. Lee Mayo followed with the conversion making the score 10 to 0.

Southeast Missouri took Mayo's kickoff, but being unable to penetrate the Vol defense, punted five plays later. Vol speedster Tommy Baker took the punt and carried it back 23 yards. Seven plays later the Vols were in again on a two yard pass from Allan Cox to wingback Bob Moulton. Mayo booted the conversion and the score was 17 to 0.

SEMO took the Volunteers' kickoff but again being unable to move the ball, was forced to punt four plays later. Again Baker caught the ball, and with some fancy stepping moved it up the field to the SEMO 38 yard line. Five plays later Vol field general Allan Cox hit end Will Heath in the end zone for another Vol score. Mayo missed the conversion, making the score at halftime 23 to 0.

The Vols took Southeast's kickoff to open the second half, but their drive was halted by a SEMO interception. The Indians were forced to punt again four plays later and once again the Vols were on the move. This drive was climaxed by a 24-yard field goal by Lee Mayo, making the score 26 to 0 with 4:23 left in the third quarter.

THE BALL then exchanged hands three times early in the fourth quarter. The Vols recovered a SEMO fumble on the Indians nine. Two plays later, Vol fullback Bobby Hayes crashed in from the seven yard line. Mayo booted the conversion, making the score 33 to 0, with 14:0 left in the fourth quarter.

Australian Visitors Speak To Ag Club

The first meeting of the Ag Club was highlighted by the presence of two Australian visitors, Byran Milligan and Dougal Gilmaul.

MILLIGAN showed slides of his native country and discussed Australia in general afterwards.

The regular business meeting followed the program. Main items were the election of a yearbook representative, a social chairman, and a homecoming queen representative. John Springer, Jim Sowell, and Alona Vincent were elected to those respective positions.

ALL Ag majors who are interested in joining the Ag Club or wish to learn more about it may do so by contacting any member or one of the newly elected sponsors, Dr. Niels Robinson, Mr. Harry Henderson, or Dr. Harold Smith.

Pros And Cons Of Draft Examined By Arizona Paper

(ACP)—A national magazine said recently that today's younger generation's single ideal is pragmatism: The value of an object or action is whether it works. This was never more evident than today, comments the XAVIER NEWS, Xavier University, Cincinnati.

TODAY'S student looks at the economic system and finds entire nations facing starvation in the midst of plenty. Entire segments of society—the Negro, the Mexican, the Indian—face economic segregation and the impossibility of social advancement.

He looks at the Vietnam war as a failure—either because we are there in the first place or because there is a lack of firmness in the nation's leadership. Washington fluctuates from hot to cold in seeking the almighty consensus and the indecision, or failure to communicate, strikes the student as being worse than the war itself.

To die for a just cause is one thing, but to fear that the sacrifice may be cheated of all significance causes one to hesitate. HE LOOKS at the civil rights movement as lacking in perspective. Negroes realize, as so few whites do, that they have been cheated, yet they go to the opposite extreme in trying to erase 100 years of discrimination. Society cannot be remade overnight. For the Negro to act contemptuously of whites is just as wrong as the white man's attitude in the first place.

The most startling expression of youth's pragmatism is in its view of education. Colleges are packed to the breaking point and still the relentless search for the key to the world continues. Every major research program is dominated by youth; the greatest advancements in every field are made by the under-30 generation—yet dissatisfaction with the world continues.

What goal is pragmatism seeking? Is this generation the first to realize that the utopia sought by the 18th and 19th century idealist is really possible? It is, admittedly, a utopia of slightly different definition—an equality of mankind. And it is the search for this equality that creates the impatience with which the Vietnam war and the civil rights movement are viewed. It is as if the younger generation is saying to its elders, "You are doing it all wrong; let us show you the way." BUT ALTHOUGH youth may possess the answers, age still controls the apparatus and the gap between the two is infinite. One refuses to recognize the other; the other refuses to wait.

Among today's greatest sins is to be capable of learning and to remain ignorant.

YELLS RIGHT, INITIALS WRONG—The cheerleaders, who as many students have noticed, still wear UTM'B' on their sweaters, have added beauty and inspiration to the team's no-loss season.

"Everyone else has missed the point. This is supposed to be a Be-in and we have something to be in."

THERE WAS more watching than Being early in the afternoon, but by 2 o'clock everybody was doing something—playing hopscotch, jumping rope, climbing trees, juggling oranges, eating bananas, smearing the statue of Silent Sam with shaving cream, or just running around in circles holding hands. Models sat on tubs while instant artists meticulously painted their noses, legs, and belly buttons. Pyramids were big for a while, until blanket tossing took over. Flowers are fruit were

Western, Kentucky; Larry Conley, Louie Dampier, and Cotton Nash, all from the University of Kentucky.

New Orleans Buccaneers who won honors in college basketball are Doug Moe from North Carolina, James Jones from Grambling and Red Robbins from played for Tennessee.

"The boys are anxious to start playing," Buccaneer boss Babe McCarthy said recently, "Because playing games is a lot more fun than practicing."

The exhibition tour began for the Buccaneers Monday at Kilgore Junior College in Dallas, Texas, when they played the Dallas Chaparrals. The two teams then tramped to North Louisiana for games at Louisiana College in Pineville, Grambling College and Hirsch Youth Center in Shreveport.

"WE have many unanswered questions and these exhibition games will show us what things we are short on," Coach McCarthy said after preparing his team for the eight-game pre-season schedule.

Following their game here, Monday, the Buccaneers and the Kentucky Colonels will travel to Murray State University for a game Tuesday night.

everywhere. Daisies led the field but occasional laurels were seen. Bananas had little competition among the fruit. Slogans were carried on sweaters, buttons, and signs. They read: "Polymorphous Perverse at the University," "Support Your Local Fuzz," "Sex Before Final Exams," and "Do It In The Spring."

But perhaps most characteristic of the mood of the Be-In was the pretty blonde in snug slacks who looked over the shoulder of a DAILY TAR HEEL reporter as he was taking notes. "What are you doing?" asked the reporter.

"I'M WATCHING you write a poem," replied the girl. It was like that.

president. Other second year class officers chosen were Cathy Prater, treasurer; Emily Duscoe, secretary; and Nancy Taylor, Student Government representative.

Freshman returns filled six offices. Jim Brady was elected president. In a close race for the vice-presidency Kay Barton defeated Don Atchison. Caren Cole was voted treasurer; Linda Shoe, secretary; Carole Hunter, Student Government representative; and Mary Jo Parrish, the annual representative.

Jimmy Atchison and Buddy Morrow were chosen student senators to represent the agriculture department.

Senators chosen from the business department were Tommy Pulliam and Bobby Mayfield. Education majors elected Lee Mayo and Sandra Moss. Andy Lowery, the only qualified candidate for the engineering department, was unopposed.

The home economics department elected Linda Austin and Tempe Johnson. Senators from the department of liberal arts are Eddie Calhoun and Nancy Dunagan.
